

PwC Speaker Meeting

Professional Presence Self Assessment:

1. I can initiate conversation with people I have never met and find common areas of interest.
2. I feel confident in my ability to dress appropriately for events whether they are casual, formal, work, or interviews.
3. I know how to introduce myself in a business like setting so that it sparks interest and conversation.
4. I know how to introduce others in social settings so that it sparks interest and conversation.
5. I have clear goals and aspirations that I could articulate without prior notice.
6. I know and follow expected norms like, punctuality, handshakes, eye contact, follow up and table etiquette.
7. I am accomplished at gracefully saying no to commitments that are not right for me.
8. My participation in social media could all be printed on the front page of my local paper without causing alarm for my parents, school or future employer.
9. What I say about myself is consistent with what others can observe.
10. I can tell an audience appropriate story that keeps the interest of others from beginning to end.

Rating scale 1-5 (1 is Never and 5 is Always)

Result:

10-25: Person with potential

25-40: Poised and progressing

40-50: Polished pro

Tips:

Tip 1 - Attire: Dress for the job you want, not the one you have.

Tip 2 – Research about the firm you apply for the position. (Service lines, industries, ranking, culture, opportunity, etc...)

Tip 3 – Storytelling: Keep it REAL:

- Connect resume with your story
- Every job has a leadership story and a team-building story
- Be timely

Programs and Opportunities at PwC:

- Explore
- Elevate
- Start

Elevate

PwC's leadership program

The participants

- Desired for high achieving college sophomore and juniors interested in a career in professional services.
- Interactive experience alongside PwC professionals and students from schools across the US.

The activities

- Embark on a journey of self discovery and career exploration.
- Learn more about yourself, the profession, and PwC.
- Stretch your imagination and challenge yourself to elevate your leadership abilities.

The firm

- Experience PwC's culture and values.
- Get an inside look at why PwC is a great place to launch your career.

Some fact about PwC

- Over 1,500 students participants in the Elevate programs
- 99% attendees would recommend Elevate to a friend
- 34 programs across 20 markets
- Start giving employees $1,200 a year in loan debt assistance in 2016